

Comedy night for St Mary of the Angels

BY FERGUS DENNEHY

THERE will be grins from ear to ear in the 'Inn Between Bar' in Beaufort this coming Friday night, November 17 as a fantastic night of comedy kicks off in aid of charity.

John Colleary - he of the Savage Eye fame - Fred Cooke of the Tommy Tiernan Show and South Kerry's very own Bernard Casey will be the main draw on a night of laughs and goodwill.

All proceeds from the night will be going towards helping to repair the roads and walkways around the grounds of the St Mary of the Angels organisation, which helps to house a number of residents with special needs.

Tickets for the fundraising show are set to cost €20 and are available either on the night or from the Inn Between Bar; doors are set to open at 8:30pm with the show itself kicking off at 9pm.
